Alexandria. NEW YORK, May 21, 1890 To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

Dear Sir : I'm an Alexandrien, though, with the exception of an occasional visit, have been away from home for the past 17 years; was in your city a few days ago and was pleased to note quite a number of im-provements therein, especially on Patrick, Cameron, Columbus, Washington, Prince and King streets.

Where we boys used to p'ay base ba i 20 years ago is now all built over. I refer to the former commons on Cameron street, on both sides of Columbus, opposite Christ Church. Great times then and many a happy bour have I spent there. They used to then literally pitch the ball, but now they throw it as swift as they can. I think the old way was the best as it gave the batter more of a chance. And the the snow-ball fights we used to have there cearly every winter between the boys of Carne's and Beach's schools! I remember one cold winter's day that the boys fought unusually hard; neither side would yield an inch. I could not account for the sudden bravery till, happening to glauce acrose the error, I saw a heav of pretty girls admiringly witnessing the mighty battle. Of course there could be no faint hearts then. Then the boys fought till the bells rang for school.

Alexandria strikes a stranger as a cozy little city of residences, not of business, for I failed to notice much business there. It cer tainly looks much neater, cleaner and better than it did twenty years ago. And yet what a dear old-fashioned city it is! Just across from Washington, but as different in its people, buildings and all as if it were distant hundreds of miles. But with its old-fashioned buildings, old-fashioned pumps, old-fashioned streets and old-fash oned pecple, it strikes the stranger as being far more interesting than a modern city. Historical little Alexandria, wherein hover the shades of Washington, Lee and other gigantic

How substantially must our forefathers have built! Some of those houses erected nearly a bundred years ago seem as sound as when first built. I noticed one out by Colross, "Mason's" we used to call it, and of have I played out there thirty years ago before the war. I see by the date at the head of the water spout that it was erected in 1799. I noticed another sound house on Washington street, built in 1796
My heart will always be with dear Alexandria, for to me there is no place like unto

As for its ladies, they are too sweet for anything. For it possesses some of the prettiest, healthiest, roslest and chubblest girls in all the world. In my journeys I have seen most lovely women, both in Europe and America, set the bonny lessies of Alexander and the state of Alexander and t and America, yet the bonny lassies of Alexandria will equal any of them for beauty and for gentleness.

Yours truly,
